

The Bernard Becker Medical Library

in collaboration with the Center for History of Medicine presents the

41st Historia Medica

Kenneth M. Ludmerer, M.D.

Professor, Departments of History and Medicine;
The Mabel Dorn Reeder Distinguished Professor in the History of Medicine
Washington University School of Medicine

“Residency Training in the United States: Past, Present, Future”

This presentation will discuss the evolution of residency training in the United States, placing the residency system in a broad professional and cultural context. It will also discuss the challenges confronting residency training today and offer suggestions for the future. The relationship between the quality of residency training and the quality of patient care in American will be a central focus.

Thursday, November 13, 2014

4:30 p.m.

Becker Medical Library, 7th floor

King Center

 BOOK SIGNING

Reception to follow – free and open to the public

