

The Bernard Becker Medical Library
in collaboration with the Center for History Of Medicine
presents

50th Historia Medica

"Poison Trials: Testing Antidotes in Early Modern Europe"

by Alisha Rankin, PhD

Thursday, March 10, 2016
4:30 p.m.
Becker Medical Library
King Center, 7th floor

Alisha Rankin, PhD, is Associate Professor in the Department of History at Tufts University. She is also core faculty in Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies and Environmental Studies. She received a BA from Wellesley College and a PhD from Harvard University. She spent three years as a Junior Research Fellow at Trinity College, University of Cambridge.

Dr. Rankin has developed courses on Renaissance and Reformation Europe; gender and family; the history of science and medicine; and the history of the book. She teaches a survey course, "Science and Technology in World History."

She is the author of Panacea's Daughters: Noblewomen as Healers in Early Modern Germany which was awarded the 2014 Gerald Strauss Prize for Reformation History, and with Elaine Leong, co-edited Secrets and Knowledge in Medicine and Science, 1500-1800.

Free and open to the public. Refreshments to follow.

