

47th Historia Medica

presented by the Bernard Becker Medical Library
in collaboration with the Center for History Of Medicine

“Harriet, Hirrel, Jessie – and a Few Surprises:

The Earliest Women at Washington University School of Medicine”

Candace O'Connor
Independent Scholar

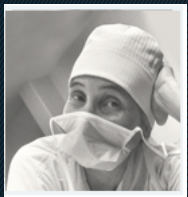

For years, women were scarce - and often unwelcome - among the students, residents and faculty at WUSM. But there were some pioneers who broke ground for the many women physicians of today. Who were these early women? What were their triumphs and failures? This lecture will introduce them in name, picture and story.

Thursday, October 22, 2015

4:30 p.m.

Becker Medical Library, 7th floor
King Center

Candace O'Connor is a St. Louis freelance writer, who has written for magazines and newspapers, locally and nationally; she has also written eight books, including histories of the WUSM departments of surgery, radiology and neurology, and a history of Washington University. Currently, she is working on histories of Barnes-Jewish Hospital and of Homer G. Phillips Hospital. She has a BA from Cornell University and MA from the University of Rochester.

Free and open to the public. Reception to follow.